I came across your YouTube video while searching about EMF and how it affects our bodies. I wanted to give you my families testimony. I live in a beautiful canyon in Utah, and we began renting at our dream home in a secluded canyon 2 years ago.

About a month ago on my birthday, I noticed a cell tower in my neighbor's yard (up a hill, hidden in the trees), about 300-500 feet away from my home. I was baffled. My 3 year old (who is unvaccinated, has always eaten an all organic diet, was breastfed 20 months, and has never been on antibiotics or any drug in her entire life has autism. When we moved here, she had no sensory sensitivities, and just had a little delay in speech. Two years later, she's a toe walker, has sensory spasms where her eyes and mouth distort themselves, and she stiffens her whole body. This happens about 50 times a day. She also has a major speech delay, leaky gut, and the list goes on.

I started trying to get pregnant again in February 2017. It took 6 months to get pregnant after trying every day during my fertile window. I was 26 and my partner was 32 at the time. I finally got pregnant, then I took a trip away from my home and came back to be 6 weeks pregnant. Directly after my first appointment with my Midwife and seeing the baby's heartbeat, my baby stopped growing. This happened again as well. I got pregnant while on vacation in a remote place in Hawaii, and came home to my EMF ridden home on my 5th week. I went to check on my baby's growth for several weeks after getting home and it never grew past the 5th week. My last pregnancy was this February and I was home while I got pregnant and miscarried 4 days after I got a positive pregnancy test. I ended up getting about 30 blood work tests done and found that I do have the gene mutation MTHFR (heterozygous c677t) and apparently people with MTHFR don't methylated very well on their own, along with not absorbing vital B vitamins, but they also don't detox metals and toxins well. Issues with MTHFR begin to happen when the gene is "expressing" due to the body having a harsh environment from food/stress/environmental factors, etc. The crazy thing is I never had health problems prior to living in this home.

I believe the strong EMF signals have made my MTHFR gene begin expressing, and I also believe it has made my daughters MTHFR gene express as well. Her autism was not visible at all until we had lived in this home for about 1 year. This 2nd year it got worse, even when we started about 10 different biomedical treatments to help with healing inflammation, leaky gut, etc.

Last year during my first pregnancy, I noticed that my glands were constantly swollen on my neck, especially the left side. They have still not gone down, even though I eat an all organic, vegan, anti-inflammation diet, I do detox baths, take a boat load of supplements for my gene mutation, use all 100% natural products in my entire house, etc, etc.

We are sick about it. Once I saw that tower peaking through the trees, all things made sense.

This is even scarier- I have 4 current (long term) neighbors on my same road, within 1/8 of a mile of my house, with cancer. One neighbor died from cancer last year. There are also 2 other women who have lived on my same road for years who have "unexplained infertility" and these two women both had a child in 2014 BEFORE the cell tower was put in in 2015. And now they cannot get pregnant.

All of these similarities have lead me to believe that this cell tower has truly affected our health. My neighbors are getting cancer left and right, infertility and miscarriages are happening, and the man who allowed Verizon to put the cell tower in his yard.. well his WIFE is one of the ones who has cancer!

I'm writing this because I need it to be heard that these cell towers are causing major health problems when you live with hundreds of feet of one. I am so mad that it is legal to put cell towers so close to homes, but we are luckily leaving our house next month to a home that is 2 miles from the nearest cell tower.
